7 | RED CENTRE

The rust-toned plywood on the living room ceiling of this Gold Coast home determined the colour palette of the space, and was repeated in elements of the furniture, artworks and accessories. Interior designer Andrea D'Cruz of RLD says: "The selection of materials was synonymous with a contemporary coastal lifestyle, maintaining a sense of timeless elegance and quality. With its amazingly generous space, we were able to use this living area to support the owners' hobbies, such as playing the piano and watching the night sky through a large telescope."

The textures of the woven leather ottoman, suede chairs and silk floor rug define the space. Knitted throws and velvet cushions add to the tactile interior, and are offset by timber joinery and a marble-top coffee table. ▶
