SHELL LIKE
Pearly handles and smoky fish-scale tiles add their lustre to this simply glamorous bathroom.

DESIGNER ANDREA D'CRUZ "The bathroom existed as a dated design from the 80s, complete with corner spa. We rationalised the space by relocating and removing elements to create a generous double vanity and focal point with the freestanding bath. Shapes such as the fish-scale tiles, oval bath and basins were chosen for their relationship to the art deco lines of the Chrysler Building with which our client shares a fond affiliation. The overall aesthetic is light, bright and high on glamour." What luxury item did you choose for this space regardless of budget? "The nickel and shell drawer pulls from Mother of Pearl and the shower door pull imported from Japan are a couple of items that add sparkle to this highly glamorous bathroom." dcruz.net.au
